

The best place to start is with your Pediatrician

The good news is most children with a concussion feel better with the right care. Your pediatrician wants to be aware of your child's injury. Some pediatricians can treat concussions in office. If not, they may be able to help you find treatment. If your child is under 3 years old you can also ask your pediatrician to submit an Early Intervention referral so that your child can be evaluated for therapies in your home if deemed necessary.
